MIDDLE SCHOOL STUDENTS

Students are invited to attend a life-changing event where they will hear nationally prominent motivational speakers and will be asked to make personal and public decisions to stay in school. They will have the opportunity to attend workshops on how to focus on staying in school, how to improve their academic performance, how to engage their counselors in planning for an academically successful experience in high school. This will serve to ensure that middle school students begin to envision and understand the process of transitioning into high school.

HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS

Students will also hear nationally prominent motivational speakers, and attend workshops on what they need to know about post-secondary education or training, and financial aid. This will serve to ensure that high school students begin to envision and understand the process for transitioning into the post-secondary education or training program of their choice.

COLLEGE STUDENTS

College students are invited to participate as volunteers, mentors, and coaches. They will have an opportunity to lead and guide younger students and acquire and develop leadership skills needed to be successful in their organizations.

PARENTS

Parents are invited to be introduced to topics such as how to help their children develop good study habits and how to be successful in school. They will be given guidance in providing leadership to the entire family during adolescence, and how to help prepare children for post-secondary education or training.
