

Seminar Series presentations are considered a supplement to firefighter and Fire Officer classes offered by the Connecticut Fire Academy. Classes provided by the Connecticut Fire Academy comply with NFPA standards and best practices of the fire service. Seminar Series are also based on these standards and practices but can and often do include opinions of the subject matter experts that are delivering the presentation. Attending any number of the Seminar Series will allow the student to, not only add to their existing training; but also encourage the student to choose from the opinions of different speakers to develop their own style of strategies and tactics at emergency scenes, as well as inspire them to acquire more knowledge on fire service subjects.

On Fire! Managing Burns and Smoke Inhalation

Fire victims don't usually die from burns – smoke inhalation and oxygen deficiency kills them. Firefighting tactics used in the United States may be contributing to civilian deaths and injuries. The U.S. has one of the worst civilian fire death rates per capita in the world. This talk will review fire survivability, fire dynamics, firefighting tactics and strategies to minimize smoke inhalation and burns, and how to care for a smoke inhalation or burn victim. There are important differences between rescue and care of a firefighter versus a civilian fire victim; this presentation will teach you what you need to know about both. Whether you are a Chief Officer, firefighter, EMT, or ALS provider, this session will enhance your ability to rescue, care for, and successfully resuscitate victims with burns, smoke inhalation, or both. It will also provide insight into changes you could make in firefighting tactics to increase the chances of victims making it out alive.
