

Seminar Series presentations are considered a supplement to firefighter and Fire Officer classes offered by the Connecticut Fire Academy. Classes provided by the Connecticut Fire Academy comply with NFPA standards and best practices of the fire service. Seminar Series are also based on these standards and practices but can and often do include opinions of the subject matter experts that are delivering the presentation. Attending any number of the Seminar Series will allow the student to, not only add to their existing training; but also encourage the student to choose from the opinions of different speakers to develop their own style of strategies and tactics at emergency scenes, as well as inspire them to acquire more knowledge on fire service subjects.

Risk Benefit Overview: Does NIOSH Get it Right?

The course will discuss what is it "risk" and what does it mean for firefighting decision-making. The course will move on to detail the NIOSH Investigative Process and how it takes "risk into account". Specific examples from NIOSH investigations will be used. Chief Fleming will break down some of the incidents that he has been involved in and discuss specific lessons that the audience members can take with them to improve their decision making and fireground safety.

- Beacon Street Fire
- Boston Marathon
- High Rise Fires
- MayDay Situations
- Technical Rescue Incidents

Instructor Biography - Deputy Chief Joseph Fleming, Boston Fire Department

Joseph (Jay) Fleming has been a member of the Boston Fire Department for over 35 years, and has held the rank of Deputy Chief for over 20 years. Fleming began his career as a Boston firefighter in 1978. He requested and served on the busiest rescue and ladder companies in Boston while simultaneously obtaining two engineering degrees from Northeastern University. He served in the position of Fire Marshal for the City of Boston for eight years, and currently serves as the Deputy Fire Chief of Division Two. He oversees six district chiefs, 127 firefighters and protects approximately 300,000 people who live and work in the city of Boston. Jay has also participated in task groups and testified before government committees across the United States regarding smoke alarm issues. Several states have based their smoke alarm regulations and recommendations on his research. He has appeared on television shows for
