

Petition For A Declaratory Ruling That No Certificate Of Environmental Compatibility And Public Need Is Required For The Installation Of A Customer-Side 460 kW Fuel Cell Project To Be Located At Fairfield Wastewater Treatment Facility (WWTF), 183 Richard White Way Fairfield, CT. 06824.

I. INTRODUCTION

Pursuant to Connecticut General Statutes Section 16-50k, Doosan Fuel Cell America, Inc.(Doosan) hereby petitions the Connecticut Siting Council (the “Council”) for a declaratory ruling (“Petition”) that a Certificate of Environmental Compatibility and Public Need (“Certificate”) is not required for the installation (upgrade of existing 200 kW fuel cell) of one (1) 460 kW fuel cells in support of a customer-side distributed resources project in Fairfield, Connecticut (the “Project”) as described below. Doosan submits that no Certificate is required because the proposed installation would not have a substantial adverse environmental effect.

II. DESCRIPTION AND LOCATION OF THE PROJECT

The fuel cell is a customer-side installation distributed generation resource with grid interconnection and is to be located on the same foot print as the existing 200 kW fuel cell at in Fairfield, CT (see project site – Attachment A). The installation consists of removing the existing 200 kW fuel cell and installing one (1) natural-gas fueled 460 kW PureCell[®] Model 400 phosphoric acid fuel cell system (“Fuel Cell”) manufactured by Doosan in South Windsor, Connecticut (see Attachment B for Model 400 datasheet). The overall dimensions of the Fuel Cell match exactly the existing fuel cell and are eight feet four inches wide by twenty-seven feet four inches long by nine feet eleven inches tall. The units are totally enclosed and factory-assembled and tested prior to shipment.

The Fuel Cell is intended for a distributed generation and combined heat and power application. The system for Fairfield will be capable of producing a total of 460 kW of continuous, reliable electric power while generating heat that will be used for space heating and cooling. It will operate in parallel with the utility grid and provide a portion of the electrical requirements of the facility. The overall efficiency of the existing system should be around 50%, including both electric and thermal output. The fuel cell heat will be used for low grade air handlers. As long as natural gas is available, electric power and heat can be generated.

The PureCell[®] Model 400 fuel cell system has been certified to meet the strict ANSI/CSA FC-1 fuel cell safety standard to protect against risks from electrical, mechanical, chemical, and combustion safety hazards. Numerous safety features have been incorporated into the design. A combustible gas sensor and thermal fuses located throughout the power module cabinet detect any over-temperature. The detection of a potential combustible gas mixture, over-temperature, or the failure of this detection circuit will result in a power plant shutdown and a subsequent inert gas (nitrogen) purge of the fuel cell stack and fuel processing system. This event will also result in a system alarm notification to the power plant operator (Doosan)

The power plant is designed with an integral emergency-stop button on the outside of the enclosure to enable immediate shutdown in the event of an emergency. There is also a gas shut-off valve and electrical disconnect switch easily accessible to emergency personnel.

The fuel cell stack is wrapped in a fire retardant blanket. There are no materials inside the unit that would sustain a flame. There is no large volume of gas or any ignition that occurs within the cell stack. The power plant does not store hydrogen; it consumes hydrogen-rich gas equal to what it requires to produce power.

Phosphoric acid is an integral part of the fuel cell system, acting as the electrolyte within the fuel cell stack. Phosphoric acid is a surprisingly common substance that is contained in common cola drinks. There is no reservoir of liquid; phosphoric acid is contained in the porous structure of the fuel cell stack material by capillary action, similar to how ink is absorbed into a blotter.

The only fluid in the power plant is water. All pressurized water vessels are designed to ASME boiler codes and inspected annually. All piping, welds, etc. meet pressurized piping standards. Water produced through the electrochemical process is “pure” water and is reclaimed and reused by the process. The other source of water is water used in the external cooling module, which is mixed with a polypropylene glycol and a rust inhibitor to prevent rust and freezing in colder climates.

The fuel cell does not produce any hazardous waste during normal operation. Standard Material Safety Data Sheets (MSDS) are available in the product service manual.

III. PROJECT BENEFITS

Fuel cell technology represents an important step in advancing Connecticut’s goal of diversifying its energy supply through the use of renewable energy, as expressed in Connecticut General Statutes Section 16-244 et seq. The Project will serve as a cost-effective clean energy source while also reducing the demand for grid electricity from this location. Further, this fuel cell installation will support the efforts of the State of Connecticut to be a leader in the utilization of fuel cell technology.

Because a fuel cell does not burn fuel, the system will significantly reduce air emissions associated with acid rain and smog, and dramatically reduce those emissions associated with global warming. The application of the Fuel Cell for Fairfield is estimated to reduce the facility's annual carbon emissions by over 260 metric tons when compared to the U.S. EPA eGrid emissions factor for non-baseload generation in the New England ISO utility system. The Fuel Cell is designed to operate in total water balance – no make-up water is normally required after start-up and no water discharges to the environment will occur under normal operating circumstances. Furthermore, unlike many traditional power generation systems, fuel cells produce very little sound and typically do not require sound proofing or cause the need for hearing protection.

IV. NO SUBSTANTIAL ADVERSE ENVIRONMENTAL EFFECT

The proposed installation will have no substantial adverse environmental effect. The installation and operation of the Fuel Cell will meet all air and water quality standards of the Connecticut Department of Environmental Protection (“DEP”).

Section 22a-174-42 of the Regulations of Connecticut State Agencies (RCSA) governing air emissions from new distributed generators exempts fuel cells from air permitting requirements. Notwithstanding this exemption, the Fuel Cell system meets the CT emissions standards for a new distributed generator as shown in Table 1 below, and no permits, registrations or applications are required under rules based on the actual emissions of the fuel cell. Furthermore, the Fuel Cell system is certified by the California Air Resources Board to meet the Distributed Generation Certification Regulation 2007 Fossil Fuel Emissions Standards (see Attachment C).

Table 1: CT Emissions Standards for a New Distributed Generator

Air Pollutant	CT Emissions Standard (lbs/MWh)	PureCell Model 400 Fuel Cell System at Rated Power (lbs/MWh)
Oxides of Nitrogen	0.3	.01
Carbon Monoxide	2	.02
Carbon Dioxide	1900	1,049

With respect to water discharges, the Model 400 Fuel Cell is designed to operate without water discharge under normal operating conditions. To the extent that minimal water overflow may occasionally occur, such discharges will consist of de-ionized water and will be directed to a site sanitary drain or dry well. This discharge will be incorporated into the overall site design, and will be covered by the site's water discharge permit, if necessary.

Further, the Fuel Cell installation and operation will have no substantial adverse effect on either listed endangered species or listed Connecticut historical places. Attachment D contains the relevant portion of the CT DEP Fairfield Natural Diverse Database areas Map. The installation of the PureCell Model 400 fuel cell will be outside of identified locations of endangered species populations.

The Fuel Cell will not emit noise in excess of limitations set forth in CT regulations. The Fuel Cell is located in the back of the Fairfield WWTF. CT regulations require a noise level of no greater than 62dBA from a Class B emitter to a Class B receptor and this installation will comply due to the nature of the site. The fuel cells are expected to operate at full power (460 kW), with a noise level in free field of well below 62dBA at 100 feet, at all times. Therefore, the fuel cells are not expected to emit "excessive noise" to the neighboring buildings.

V. LOCAL INPUT AND STATE FUNDING

Doosan will complete all necessary permitting before installing the unit at Fairfield.

VI. CONCLUSION

As set forth above, Doosan requests that the Council issue a determination, in the form of a declaratory ruling, that the proposed installation above is not one that would have a substantial adverse effect, and, therefore, that a Certificate is not needed.

Respectfully submitted,
