Program Description:

- Overview of the SABA Learning Management System.
- What's new in the Learning Management System 5.5 upgrade.
- Overview of SABA Performance Talent & Management System.

Presenters:

Travis Hudelson - Director, Education & Government, Saba. Travis's primary role is to ensure Saba delivers the appropriate technology and services to each client to ensure the success of their projects, and to align those projects with business goals delivering value to their organizations. Travis has been with Saba since 2006, and in learning technology/ human capital management since 1986. He led the team which delivered the first interactive video training for Microsoft Office and pioneered in the use of multimedia in training and development. Currently Travis and Steve support twelve agencies within the Connecticut Executive branch, as well as the Connecticut Judicial branch and the University of Connecticut Health Center.

Steven Gregory - Sr. Solution Consultant, Saba. Steve's primary role is the support of sales activity within North America. This includes the creation and delivery of business surveys, proposals, and customized demonstrations that showcase Saba's ability to meet customer needs in the areas of learning, performance, succession, compensation, and collaboration. Steve has been with Saba since June 2005 and in the HCM space since 2001. Steve brings over 20 years experience working with enterprise application software in areas such as human capital management, e-commerce, and supply chain planning/ management software.
