New Co-Chairs for CTDN Network

It's hard to believe that two years have gone by so quickly! Our term as your co-chairs is ending in June. Serving as co-chairs of this network has been a fulfilling experience for us to lead a dynamic group of people who are dedicated to the field of training and development.

It's time now for two new people to take the reins and continue the success of our CTDN Network. We're putting a call out to all CTDN members to consider taking a leadership role in the organization.

Serving as a co-chair is rewarding and fun! You will have the opportunity to meet many of our network members and build on CTDN's current success. You and another CTDN colleague will work as a team to create a future plan to continue providing members with opportunities to enhance their professional development. If you have new ideas to take our membership into the future and want to have a direct impact on our network, we'd like to hear from you!

If a co-chair position is not for you but you know of a CTDN member who would enjoy being in a leadership role, you may nominate your CTDN colleague.

We are currently accepting names of any CTDN member interested in becoming a co-chair. To nominate yourself or one of your colleagues, please email Deana Giordano at deana.giordano@ct.gov.

Thank you!
