

Designing Serious Learning by Playing Games

Program Description:

Let's end the year on a fun note! Plan to attend in December and re-visit the connection between games and learning. We'll explore how you can adapt popular TV game shows and board games to create your own customized games – with little or no money! Together, we'll discover how to enhance learning and increase retention through actual demonstrations and team play. Come prepared to leave with more training tools to make training stick!
