

Just so that you know, this is my promise to you:

I WILL

I will guide you to the power of the light and lead you through darkness of the night.

I will help you to grow with awareness seldom told and encourage you to be intelligent yet bold.

I will listen with a caring ear and honor you with a sincere heart.

I will be a protector of your promise and be a shield against evil.

I will be your number one fan in the sport of life as well as being a social coach helping you to avoid moments of strife.

I will share with you rather than take from you.

I will teach my son about the essence of being a man and my daughter how to live life consistent with important values that will strengthen morals now and move forward in the future.

I will pledge my undying love and unyielding loyalty.

Name

Date

Ernie Racine, author

F.E.L.T. Fatherhood Engagement Leadership Team, September 2013