

"In the end, our society will be defined not only by what we create, but by what we refuse to destroy."
~ John C. Sawhill

Building materials reuse is one of the most sustainable activities associated with our built environment. Building materials reuse centers or stores act as repositories and sales floors for recovered materials. Deconstruction is the careful practice of disassembling buildings to recover and reuse their components and materials intended for use in new construction.

Deconstruction is a cost competitive alternative to conventional building demolition. By reusing building materials, many environmental and social benefits can be realized, including:

- Reducing the consumption of new resources
- Creating value-added market from waste materials
- Minimizing landfill waste and pollution
- Expanding job opportunities and workforce development skills
