FTC Harvest Celebration Week Update

By Linda Piotrowicz

Farm-to-Chef Program Manager

A total of 79 restaurants and foodservice businesses have signed up to participate in the first-ever Farm-to-Chef Harvest Celebration Week ("FTC Week"), 9/26/10 through 10/2/10. Pre-registration is now closed. A list of participants is available on the Department of Agriculture (DoAG)'s website.

A number of efforts have been taken or are underway to provide information to and assist everyone participating in this event. A summary of some of these undertakings follow.

PRESENTATION BY CHRISTINE APPLEWHITE, CT DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC HEALTH

Christine Applewhite from DPH's Food Protection Program was a guest at the 5/18/10 FTC mini-meeting, where she talked about CT Grown foods that are and are not considered to be approved source foods for use in foodservice. Christine explained that she and her agency are eager to collaborate with FTCers to help make FTC Week a success. She emphasized a proactive approach to preventing any potential misunderstandings that might result in a last-minute objection from a local health inspector during FTC Week.

Christine gave a 30-minute talk and then answered a wide variety of specific questions from FTCers. She also handed out a helpful resource document, which has been included in this newsletter on the following page. Christine encouraged anyone with questions about what can and cannot be used in foodservice to contact her at 860-509-7297 or christine.applewhite@ct.gov.

8/1/10 CT WINE TASTING FOR FTC WEEK PARTICIPANTS

The CT Vineyard and Winery Association has offered to host an exclusive tasting from 11:00 AM to Noon at the CT Wine Festival, before the event opens to the public that day. This tasting is a special effort to help FTC Week participants select the one or more CT wines that must be offered during FTC Week. Each FTC Week participant may bring up to two representatives to taste wines. This event is free but registration is required. Registration must be completed online at <http://www.surveymonkey.com/s/VM6W5BP> by midnight 6/13/10.

INDEPENDENT FTC WEEK MARKETING CAMPAIGN

Because of DoAG's budgetary constraints, a few FTC Week participants have launched an independent marketing campaign to help promote FTC Week. They are in the process of designing posters and postcards, along with a blog that will help generate excitement over the summer. This group may contact participants directly regarding their efforts. Look for additional information soon.

SUGGESTIONS FOR FTC PRODUCERS/PROVIDERS

FTC Week participants will be required to submit their FTC Week menus, and the farms from which they will source the featured CT Grown ingredients, in mid-August. Producers who would like to have their farms and products featured are encouraged to reach out to participants (see link to list above) this summer with information about what products they anticipate having in late September. Please remember that the best time to call is between 2:00 and 4:30 PM, Tuesday through Friday. Most chefs welcome the opportunity to meet with producers and sample their products. Communication is key, and persistence often pays off. Please email Linda.Piotrowicz@ct.gov if you need additional contact information for FTC Week participants.

Approved Source Foods for use in Restaurants

While many locally grown agricultural products are available for consumers to purchase directly for use in their own home, foods intended for use in retail establishments must comply with applicable regulations of CT State Agencies. Regulations require all foods utilized in foodservice establishments to originate from an approved source. Generally, except for raw, fresh produce, all food must originate from a regulated, inspected facility. Those that do not are considered to be unapproved and are subject to embargo and destruction by the local health authority. To avoid this, the Food Protection Program has developed the list below. If you are ever unsure if a specific food item is approved for use, please contact the Food Protection Program and ask!

Disclaimer: THIS LIST IS NOT ALL-ENCOMPASSING

Unapproved Foods

- * Raw milk
- * Dairy products not produced under licensure and inspection by the Department of Agriculture (including cheeses and yogurt)
- * Jams, jellies, preserves produced under the CT regulatory exemption
- * Eggs which have not been inspected and graded by a USDA program or equivalent
- * Jerky produced under a USDA exemption
- * Custom-slaughtered poultry and meats which were not slaughtered, butchered, and packaged within a USDA facility and not bearing the official USDA seal
- * Home-canned products of any type
- * “Value-added” food items not produced in a commercial facility and not having the approval of the Department of Consumer Protection
- * Shellfish harvested from sources not approved by the CT Dept of Agriculture, Bureau of Aquaculture
- * Finfish that were not commercially caught
- * Wild game or other exotic species not processed and packaged under a USDA regulatory program.
- * Hunted game of any sort

DISCLAIMER!!!

The CT Grown “haves” and “wants” listed in this newsletter were submitted by members. Farm-to-Chef Program reminds all members that questions regarding what can or cannot be sold in a foodservice establishment should be answered by your local department of health (DPH). Your local DPH, and, by extension, the state DPH, are the entities that regulate the sources of foods and the documentation of the sources of foods that can be purchased and served in a food service establishment.
