CEC Pricing Policy Statement

Our products and services are priced comparable to the lowest market prices for similar products and services offered outside the institution. "Comparable" is tempered by factors such as minimum quantities, production backlogs, customer delivery expectations, customized products and other factors that cause commercial suppliers to deviate from their published price guidelines. Correctional Enterprises offers extra services and value such as expedited deliveries, pick up and delivery, no minimum order charge, and design assistance at minimal or no cost. The private sector charges a significant premium for "Special" orders and services. We establish selling prices that absorb the actual cost of labor and materials and a portion of manufacturing and management overhead cost. Total cost absorption is directly related to actual annual sales volume as compared to the forecast that resulted in the overhead allocation computation. Profits from CEC activities are reinvested in inmate work programs and a portion is returned to the general fund as dictated by future CEC working capital needs.

The CEC Program benefits everyone. The Corrections Administration has a cost-effective way to occupy a portion of the ever-growing prison population. The Prisoner is afforded the opportunity to increase job skills, meet financial obligations, and increase the likelihood of meaningful employment when released from incarceration. The Public benefits from the lower cost offering of Products and Services available to State Agencies and other end users. The CEC customers benefit because they receive low cost products and services. We can assist State Agencies by providing labor intensive mundane work services which allow the Agencies to reallocate their current work force to higher priority projects and needs. A condition of our participation is that we are an incremental resource and we want to be sure that our services do not result in the displacement of currently employed workers or impact existing contracts for services.
