LEGAL DISCLAIMER

This presentation includes important general principles of law regarding building and safety code administration and enforcement. It is not intended to be used as legal advice, nor is it exhaustive in the areas referenced.

Questions of law on legal remedies, or proper administration and enforcement in your jurisdiction should be directed to your legal counsel.
Objective:

To identify and review important sections of existing CT state law applicable to hoarding hazard response by state or local officials (police, fire, health, building, housing and blight), and in cases of rental property, by landlords and tenants.
Who may get called about a hoarding complaint?

- Fire Department/ Fire Marshal’s Office
- Health Department
- Police Department
- Building/Housing Department
- Animal Control Officer
- Landlord
- Adult and Child Protective Services
TEAM APPROACH WORKS!

The best and longest lasting response to severe hoarding behaviors is a coordinated team approach, with referral as needed for evaluation, treatment and human services.
THE MOST SUCCESSFUL HOARDING HAZARD RESPONSES INCLUDE ALL
A Two-Tiered Response

Severe hoarding responses are two-tiered: Initial (sometimes emergency) response and Follow-up response (referrals). Safety hazard responses necessarily come first. However, from the start make the necessary referrals including mandated reporting to safeguard persons or animals.
A Two-Role Intervention

There are two roles for municipal intervention in severe hoarding cases:

– Enforcement by health and safety officials.

– Support by mental health, human and animal services.
CONSIDER FIRST RESPONDER SAFETY
Qualified immunity protects all but the plainly incompetent or those government officials who knowingly violate the law.

Duties: The Basics

Discretionary vs. Ministerial

When the law requires that an official perform any certain action, failure to perform is a violation of duty. This is the case particularly where the acts are ministerial in nature, rather than discretionary.
When is an act “discretionary?”

When a law, policy or directive includes some act or omission, and the decision of how to perform the act or whether to act at all requires or allows for professional judgment. These are referred to as “discretionary acts.”

Terms often used are “may” and “is authorized.”
Duties: The Basics
Discretionary vs. Ministerial

When is an act “ministerial?”
When a law, policy or directive clearly establishes that an act must be performed, the relevant officials are not free to exercise their own judgment in determining whether to perform the act. These are called “ministerial acts.”

Often uses terms “shall”, “must” or “will.”
