Waterbury Hospital is dedicated to providing compassionate high quality health care services. We work very hard to provide a safe hospital environment and to prevent people from getting healthcare-associated infections. Our Infection Prevention Team consists of three Infectious Disease physician specialists, an Infectious Disease pharmacist, an Infection Prevention nurse specialist, and an Infection Prevention physician officer. This hospital-based team leads a very active Infection Prevention Program that follows or exceeds national guidelines in its efforts to prevent healthcare-associated infections. Waterbury Hospital has voluntarily reported its infection rates to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) for decades. We intend to continue our focus on meeting and exceeding infection prevention standards and providing education, both to our staff and to the community, in order to maintain a safe and healing environment.
