RURAL RENOVATION PROJECTS!

Have you always wanted to repurpose a cool vintage structure on your property?

Do you have a unique structure that you've been waiting to convert into a dream living space?

Does your structure have a rich history or American backstory?

Do you live in a rural area, where cool old materials can easily be sourced?

A major TV production company is currently searching for homeowners that are looking to convert or repurpose their wild and over-grown structures into a one-of-a-kind living space. From the old silo that's a part of an aging farm, to an abandoned school bus or camper that's broken down and rusting away -- let us help you design and build an amazing dream living space on national television!
