

Citizen's Guide to Filing a Complaint

2012

INTRODUCTION

The Connecticut Office of State Ethics (OSE) is an independent regulatory division of the Office of Governmental Accountability, charged with administering and enforcing Connecticut Codes of Ethics, located in Chapter 10, General Statutes.

The Ethics Codes under the OSE's jurisdiction are comprised of:

- The Code of Ethics for Public Officials (Part I)
General Statutes §§ 1-79 to 1-89;
- The Code of Ethics for Lobbyists (Part II)
General Statutes §§ 1-91a to 1-101a; and
- Limited jurisdiction over Ethical Considerations Concerning Bidding and State Contracts (Part IV)
General Statutes §§ 1-101mm to 1-101rr.

This guide provides general information only. The descriptions of the law and the OSE are not intended to be exhaustive. Please contact the Legal Division of the OSE with any questions regarding interpretation of the law. Please note that some statutory or other provisions discussed in this guide are not part of the Codes of Ethics and are provided strictly for informational purposes only.

FILING A COMPLAINT

What constitutes a formal complaint?

Enforcement of the Codes is initiated by a complaint, filed by the Ethics Enforcement Officer or by any member of the public. Where the Ethics Enforcement Officer files a complaint, it is typically preceded by a confidential staff evaluation conducted by the Enforcement Division of the OSE.

A complaint from a member of the public must comply with certain requirements.

It must:

- Be filed on the proper OSE complaint form, as prescribed by the Citizen's Ethics Advisory Board (Board) (pictured on page 5);
- Contain an original signature (signed under penalty of false statement);
- Be delivered or mailed to the Office of State Ethics at 18-20 Trinity Street in Hartford;
- Clearly set forth facts that, if true, would constitute a violation of the Ethics Codes; and,
- Identify a respondent (the person who is the subject of the complaint) with enough particularity that the complaint may be served on him or her.

In filling out the complaint form, it is best to complete the requested information with as much detail as possible. In other words, your complaint form should:

- If possible, cite to the specific statute or provision that is believed to have been violated;
- Clearly identify any known witness to the alleged violation or other persons with knowledge of the alleged violation;
- Include any documentation supporting the allegations, if available (listed and attached as "Exhibit 1," "Exhibit 2," and so on); and
- Identify the source of any statements made in the complaint that are not based on personal knowledge, when possible.

The Enforcement Division receives many "tips" for review, but only a formal complaint initiates a formal action. A formal complaint is not an e-mail, a telephone call, a written statement on paper that is not the proper form, a form that is sent via fax or e-mail, an anonymous statement, or a form without the full name, address and phone number of the complainant (the person filing the complaint).

The OSE's Jurisdiction

All state officials and employees (except judges) are covered by Part I of the Code of Ethics for Public Officials. General Statutes §§ 1-79 – 1-90. Certain provisions of the Code also apply to public officials and state employees after they leave state service.

Filing a Complaint

These laws were enacted to prevent individuals from using their public position or authority for personal financial benefit.

General Statutes §§1-84 and 1-85, 1-86 and 1-86d contain specific rules that pertain to legislators, public officials, and state employees. These sections are intended to prevent one from using public position or authority for personal financial benefit.

Lobbyists are covered by Part II of the Code of Ethics. General Statutes §§ 1-91 – 1-101. Lobbying is generally defined as communicating directly, or soliciting others to communicate, with any official or his/her staff in the legislative or executive branch of government or in a quasi-public agency for the purpose of influencing any legislative or administrative action.

Current or potential state contractors are covered by Part IV of the Code of Ethics. General Statutes § 1-101mn specifically covers willful violation or attempts to circumvent state competitive bidding procedures and ethics laws. Consultants and independent contractors are covered by General Statutes § 1-86e.

Relevant statutes and regulations are available in hard copy by contacting the OSE and are also available on the OSE's website.

Note: The OSE does not have jurisdiction over local or municipal issues, or over individuals who are not state employees, public officials, registered lobbyists, or otherwise regulated by the Codes of Ethics.

Proper Complaint Form

The complaint form is pictured below and can be obtained in person at the OSE, 18-20 Trinity Street in Hartford, CT, 860-263-2400; or from our website, www.ct.gov/ethics.

- 1) This complaint will not be considered filed without the name, address, and original signature of the Complainant. Mail or hand-deliver this complaint to:

Office of State Ethics
18-20 Trinity Street, Suite 205
Hartford, CT 06106

Complaints will not be accepted electronically or by fax.
- 2) Once filed, this complaint may not be withdrawn by the Complainant except with permission of the Citizen's Ethics Advisory Board.
- 3) In addition to the criminal penalties that may be imposed upon a Complainant who, under penalty of false statement, knowingly files a false complaint, the Code of Ethics provides that if any complaint is made with the knowledge that it is without foundation in fact, the person against whom the complaint is made (the Respondent) has a cause of action against the Complainant for double the amount of damages caused. If the Respondent prevails in the action, the cost of the action together with reasonable attorney fees may also be awarded to the Respondent by the court.
- 4) The Office of State Ethics' preliminary investigation of a complaint is confidential unless the Respondent requests that it be open. Unless the Office of State Ethics advises you otherwise, the allegations in the complaint and any information supplied to or received from the Office of State Ethics may not be disclosed to any third party by the Complainant, Respondent, witness, designated party, Office of State Ethics staff member(s), or the Citizen's Ethics Advisory Board.

CONFIDENTIALITY

Overview

Any complaint alleging a violation of the Codes of Ethics will remain confidential except:

- After a judge trial referee makes a finding of probable cause (a determination by a judge trial referee that there is probable cause to believe that a public official, state employee, or lobbyist has violated a provision of the Codes);
- Upon request of the respondent; or
- Upon an agreed resolution of the matter by consent order.

Likewise, any investigation conducted prior to finding of probable cause remains confidential except upon the request of the respondent. This means that the allegations in the complaint and any information supplied to or received from the OSE during the investigation will not be disclosed to any third party. While the investigation is confidential, no one – the complainant, respondent, witnesses, designated party, OSE Board member, OSE staff member – may disclose that a complaint has been filed, or any information related to the investigation of the complaint. (See Advisory Opinion 2007-9, which details these confidentiality requirements while keeping a complainant’s right to disclose the facts that formed the basis of the complaint.)

Publication of Findings

If the Enforcement Division of the OSE finds no probable cause to believe there has been a violation of the Codes, the investigation will be terminated and the complaint dismissed. Within three days after an investigation has been terminated, the Enforcement Division of the OSE will inform both complainant and respondent of its finding and provide each the summary of its reasons for making that finding. Upon the respondent’s request only, the OSE may publish the findings and the accompanying summary.

No Probable Cause

Should a judge trial referee make a finding of no probable cause after a probable cause hearing, the initial complaint and all related OSE records will remain confidential, except upon the request of the respondent. No party involved may disclose any details of the investigation, including knowledge of the existence of the complaint itself.

Probable Cause

Following a probable cause hearing, a judge trial referee has thirty days to render a finding. If a judge trial referee makes a finding of probable cause, that finding must be made public within five days. This means that the entire record of the investigation will become public, unless the OSE postpones release of records for up to two weeks for the purpose of attempting to reach a consent order or settlement.

Note: While all parties must maintain confidentiality, the Enforcement Division of the OSE is permitted by law to report, at any time, the possible commission of a crime to the Chief State’s Attorney or another prosecutorial authority.

Filing a Complaint

COMPLAINT STAGES AND PROCESS

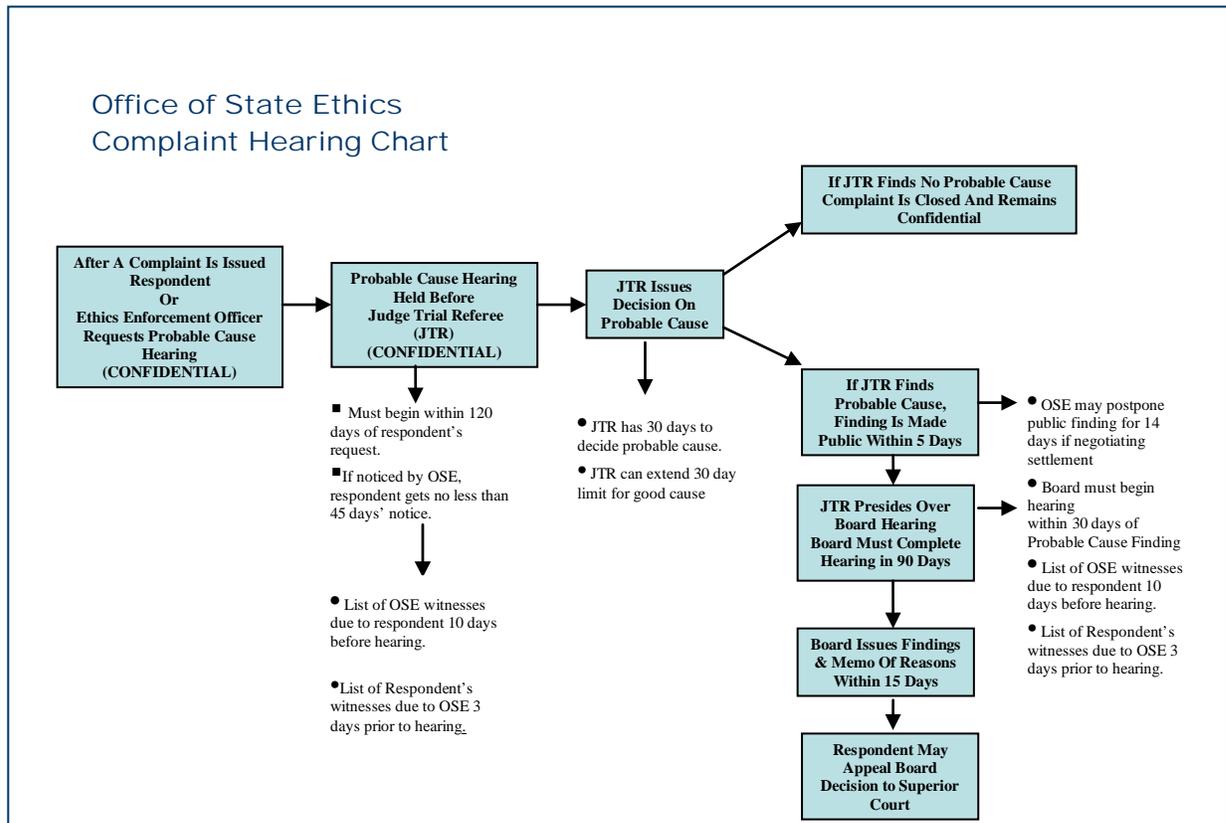

Procedure

The filing of a complaint triggers the following three-step process:

1. Enforcement Division completes a preliminary investigation, which may include informal interviews, subpoenas for documents and testimony under oath;
2. Upon completion of the preliminary investigation, a probable cause hearing may be held before a judge trial referee;
3. If the judge trial referee finds there is probable cause to believe a violation has occurred, the case is presented for administrative trial, at which a different judge trial referee presides, with the Citizen's Ethics Advisory Board serving as the jury. (If the Board decides after a hearing that a violation has occurred, the respondent may appeal the decision to the Superior Court.)

At any stage of this process, the Enforcement Division and the respondent may attempt to negotiate the terms of an agreed order to settle the matter. Once approved, the consent order becomes public record.

Timeframes

PENALTIES AND OTHER ACTIONS

After a finding or admission of a violation, the Citizen's Ethics Advisory Board can order the respondent to:

1. Comply with the Code in the future;
2. File any required report or statement; and/or
3. Pay a civil penalty of up to $10,000 per violation.

The Board may also revoke a lobbyist's registration for up to two years. In addition, a contractor who is found in violation of the Code of Ethics may be banned from doing business with the state.

In addition to the procedures described above, The Office may conduct hearings in its own accord, without filing of a formal complaint, if any lobbyist or public official has failed to file a report, statement, or other information required by the Code. Following the hearing, the Board can, after a single hearing, impose a civil penalty of up to $10 per day for each violation, not to exceed $10,000 per violation.

The Office of State Ethics may refer matters to the Chief State's Attorney for criminal prosecution. An intentional violation of the Code is a misdemeanor for the first violation, unless the individual has derived a financial benefit of at least $1,000. In that case, the violation is a class D felony.

The Attorney General may sue to recover any financial gain received by the respondent through knowingly committing or knowingly profiting from certain violations of the Code.

If a false complaint (without foundation in fact) is knowingly made, the respondent may have a cause of action against the complainant for double the amount of damage caused by the complaint. The respondent may also be awarded court costs and attorneys' fees. General Statutes § 1-82 (c).

STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS

Per the Statute of Limitations, a complaint cannot be prosecuted if it is filed five years or more after the violation alleged in the complaint has been committed.
