Microsoft	Microsoft meeting attendees provided information on their "Stimulus 360" product. It is a software solution to track stimulus funds, documentation, and project status that Microsoft is providing to customers for "free", but, in order to use their software in house, so there would be potential expenses to the state to purchase missing software. We discussed whether Stimulus money included any "administrative costs" that could potentially be use to purchase their solution. No commitments were made, but we are taking a further look at the costs involved. Also attending were Tyler Kleykamp and Kelly Clark of OPM.	meeting
